

GAGE Survey General Instructions

General Instructions for Completing Survey

- Broadly speaking, the GAGE household survey consists of questions and answers to questions. All of the questions have been designed to elicit specific information, so it is important to read the questions exactly as they are written in the questionnaire, following the established order.
- Closely follow all instructions on the questionnaire when asking the questions to ensure that each question is understood and answered correctly.
- The questions in the survey have been designed to accommodate all possible answers you would need for the particular question. The discussion will describe the types of questions and notes that will be found in the survey.

General Instructions for Completing Survey

- Within the survey form, there will be notes specifically for the interviewer that are not meant to be read aloud. Please read and consider these notes carefully.
- Questions and notes that are not meant to be read aloud will be italicized in the electronic survey. Please read these instructions carefully.
- In the case that a paper survey is being utilized, notes that should not be read will be bolded and/or italicized and may be preceded with “Note” or “Do not read” or placed in brackets. Text that should be read will be preceded with “Read:” in bold.

Text not meant to be read,

Read: Now I will read a list of statements that may or may not apply to you. Please show me whether you agree or disagree that these statements describe you by moving to the designated spaces, as we just did.

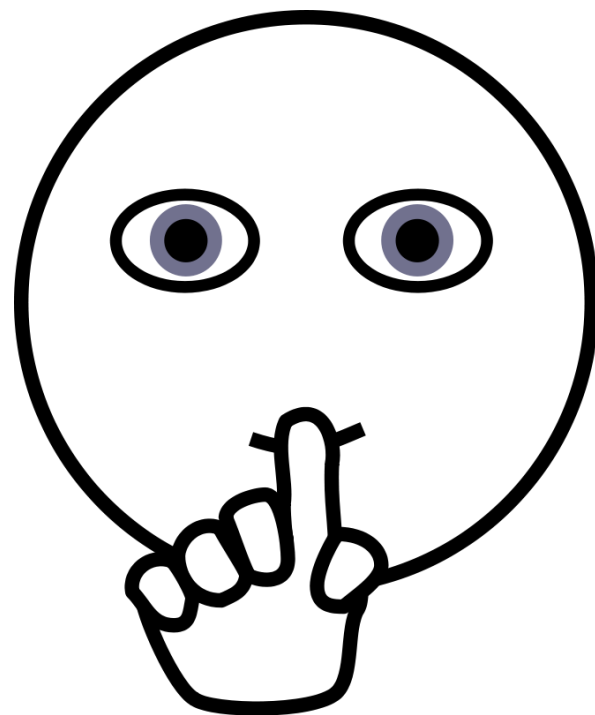

Remind respondent the location for “Agree” and “Disagree”. Remember to prompt whether the respondent agrees(disagrees) or strongly agrees(disagrees) when the respondent goes to the corresponding space. Record the appropriate code.

[IF MOVES TO Agree]: Now I would like to do know: do you just agree that [READ STATEMENT] or do you strongly agree?

[IF MOVES TO Disagree]: Now I would like to know: do you just disagree that [READ STATEMENT] or do you strongly disagree?

Codes for Q10-Q24

- 1= Disagree strongly
- 2= Disagree a little
- 3= Neutral: no opinion
- 4= Agree a little
- 5= Agree strongly
- 97=(Do not read aloud): Refused
- 99=(Do not read aloud): Don't know

Unprompted vs. prompted questions

There are some questions for which the enumerator may read out the responses and other questions for which the enumerators should not read the responses out loud. In the SurveyCTO program, there will be notes associated with questions that specify whether responses should be read out loud or not, italicized. Please review the unprompted example on the right:

Unprompted

What are the the first main characteristics of this person that you admire most?

General Instructions for Completing Survey

Closed questions are questions that have the answer options supplied to them. The answer options accommodate all possible answers by respondents.

1a. Does the household have a title or deed for the house or the land the house is on?	Yes	1
	No	2
	Refused	-97
	Don't know	-99

General Instructions for Completing Survey

Combination of closed- and open- questions are those that have a set of options from which you can choose, including an option that reads “Other, specify.” . It is important that you are careful to ensure that the response given by the respondent does not fit into any of the provided responses before entering in a custom response under “Other.”

Who have you told?

Unanswered Questions which are asked

There are cases where the respondents will not answer an individual question, either because they do not know the answer or because they refuse to answer the question. If, after asking the question several times, you still cannot get a response, the following codes are used throughout the survey:

Refused	-97
Don't know	-99

However, these codes should be used very rarely. These codes should never be read aloud to the respondent and should be used only as a last resort.

Skips

In order to have a logical order to filling in the questionnaire, it has been designed with a system of skips that allows the interviewer to follow the logical sequence of questions based on responses to questions already provided. The survey program will automatically deactivate sections and questions that should be skipped.

“Active Questions” and Keeping Adolescents Engaged

In the Core Respondent Module an effort has been made to incorporate activities into the survey to keep the interest of the 11/12 year old respondent. It is very important to carefully explain the rules of the activity to the core respondent and to maintain the quality of data collection during these activities, although they should be fun and feel more relaxed for the respondent.

General Instructions for Completing Survey

Green/Red/Yellow Cards: The core respondent will select Green, Red, or Yellow cards according to whether they agree, disagree, or somewhat agree with a particular attitude or norm.

Read: Now, I will ask you whether you agree, partially agree, or disagree with certain statements. People in the community have all kinds of different opinions. We have chosen some of them here. We are curious to hear if you agree with them or disagree with them. Please do not worry about giving us the correct answer, just tell us how you feel.

I have three cards here. GREEN for agree [HOLD UP CARD], YELLOW for somewhat agree [HOLD UP CARD], and RED for disagree [HOLD UP CARD]. I'm going to read you some statements and you can select whichever card represents the way you feel. If you agree with the statement with no reservations, select the GREEN card. If you somewhat agree with the statement, or generally agree but with some reservation or can think of exceptions, select the YELLOW card. If you disagree with the statement, select the RED card.

Record appropriate code after the respondent selects the card.

Other Activities

Sorting Beans: When we ask the core respondent about his/her time use, we will give the respondent 24 beans that he/she will be asked to distribute across the time categories according to how many hours they spend doing each activity on a typical (school) day.

Educational Testing: You will administer the Raven's Colored Progressive Matrices test and the ASER Math and Reading tests for the core respondent. These tests are printed on paper and provided to the CR so that they can write and do work on the sheets.

Drawing Exercise: We will provide paper and colored pencils and will ask the CR to draw him or herself.
