Field Checklist

Before the interview make sure that you have all needed documents for the interview: tablet and charger, 24 beans and time use category cards, red/yellow/green cards, pencils and paper copies of the ASER test, Raven's cards, paper and colored pencils for self-portraits, paper copies of each survey, pen and notebook for notetaking, and a folder to carry materials.

Who is present in the interview: If as often happens, other people are present, try to ask whether it is ok for the child to be together just with you. If not try to minimize how many people are present by saying you will talk to other people later but right now the study wants to focus on young people's own words and experiences. In cases of children with a disability, very often they don't want to talk alone – and that is fine also.

Step 1: Introduce yourself and the project briefly:

My name is And I'm working as a researcher for the GAGE research project. In Jordan this is a partnership between Jordanian research organizations, as well as international partners. The project focuses on young people (10-19 years), the opportunities and the challenges they face.

I want to thank you for your willingness to participate in this interview and making the time.

Step 2: Provide more background (while you show the consent form) and secure informed consent:

Read the entire consent form to the participant and have them give their consent or assent to the interview, depending on the respondent type.

Make sure to emphasize that their participation is voluntary and that even if they start the interview, they do not have to answer all of the questions and can stop at any time. Also make clear that their participation is confidential. Their identifying information will not be shared and only aggregative information we collect will be used for research purposes.

Please also make them aware that if they agree to be part of the study, the research team would like to revisit them/ their family once per year over the next five years. The purpose of this will be to understand how young people and their families are progressing over time.

Step 3: Questions: Ask the participant(s) if he/she has any questions before starting the interview?

Inform the participants if they have any questions during the interview they can ask at any time.

Step 4: Begin the interview by starting with the coversheet.

- Make sure you are talking to the correct person. Confirm that the Core Respondent name is the same as on the prefilled coversheet on SurveyCTO (both for the CR interview and the household roster). If the names are the same, but misspelled, this can be corrected during the Household Roster. If the names are not the same, terminate the interview.
- Go through all questions as they appear in the program. If someone is present during the start of the interview, politely ask them to leave from the beginning. If they refuse to leave, once again politely ask them to leave before starting the more sensitive questions that require privacy (refer to the manual for these sections). If they still will not leave, and are not a survey respondent, first try to have another enumerator occupy them with the mock survey. The last resort is to skip these sections. Refer to the manual for the specific procedures here.
- If there are any issues during the survey, contact your supervisor or refer to the manual.

Step 5: At the end of the interview, collect the contact info and the photo of the ID and then end the survey program.

Be sure that all questions have been correctly answered before ending the survey as you cannot go back into the interview once you select end the survey collection form

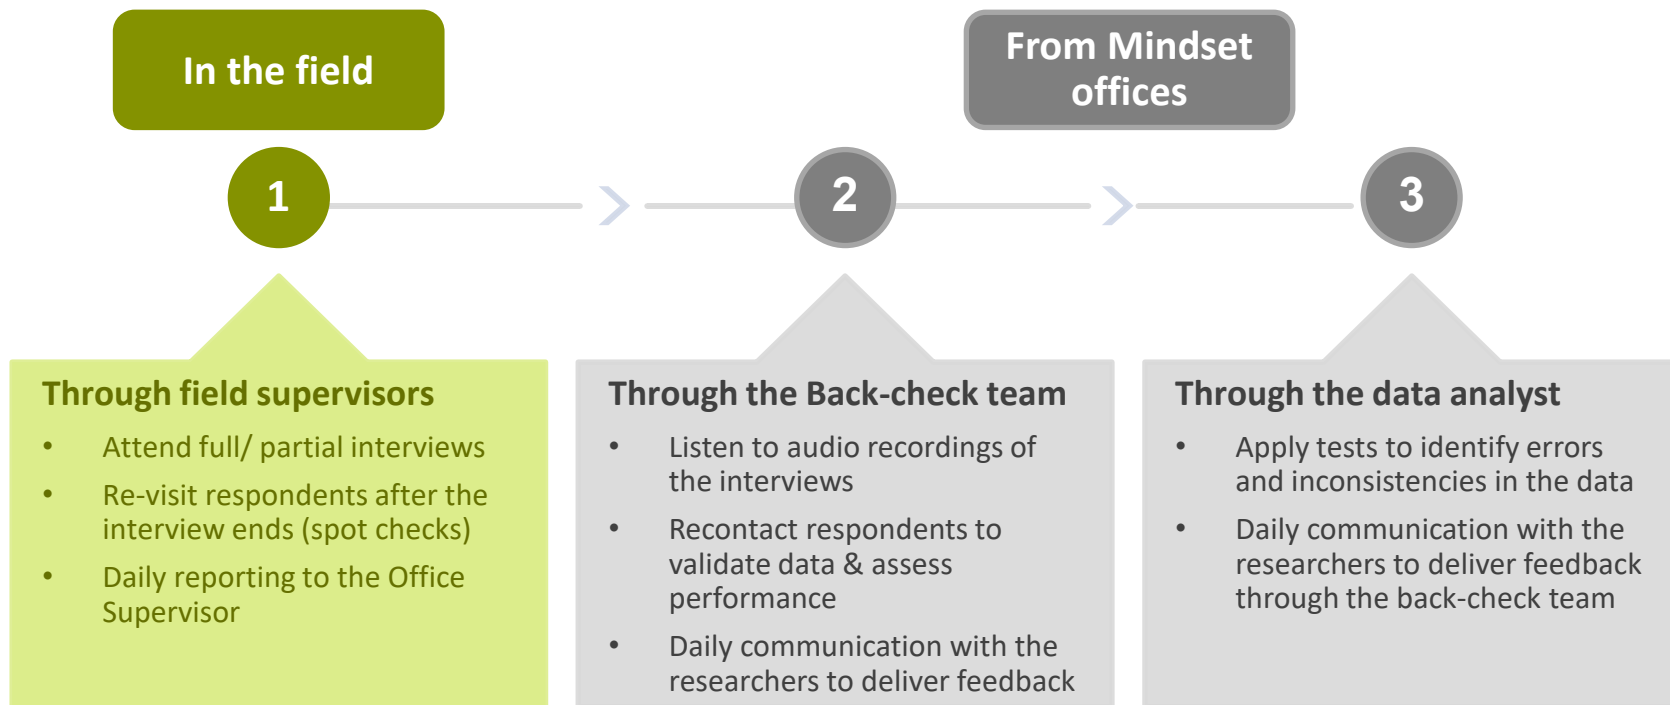

Step 6: Thank the Participants

And assure them that you gained very good information. Remind the participant that the research team would visit their family once per year over the next five years, as it's a longitudinal study. Give the participant a card with GAGE contact number and inform them that can use it if they want to ask any questions or contact us after the interview.

Quality Control

Quality Control

Quality Control

In the field

Through field supervisors

- Attend full/ partial interviews
- Re-visit respondents after the interview ends (spot checks)
- Daily reporting to the Office Supervisor

- The team consists of a supervisor and 4 researchers
- Supervisor tasks:
 - Attend interviews and conduct spot checks on a daily basis
 - Ensure team members went to the correct addresses and re-ask a few questions to validate data and assess performance
 - Provide feedback to the team and report to the Office Supervisor

Quality Control

From Mindset
offices

Through the Back-check team

- Listen to audio recordings of the interviews
- Recontact respondents to validate data & assess performance
- Daily communication with the researchers to deliver feedback

- Random selection of interviews to be listened to, to ensure that the data provided is accurate and to assess enumerators' performance
- Random selection of respondents to be re-contacted and asked key questions from the questionnaire form again
- The back-check team will contact the researchers on a daily basis to deliver feedback on performance

Quality Control

From Mindset

Through the data analyst

- Apply tests to identify errors and inconsistencies in the data
- Daily communication with the researchers to deliver feedback through the back-check team

- Check all data collected on a regular basis
- Apply tests to verify the validity and accuracy of the data
- Provide feedback to the back-check team to contact researchers and convey this feedback to them

Quality Control

- The most important points to be confirmed in all stages of quality control:
 - Interview location
 - Interview duration
 - Personal information of the respondent

Quality Control

- Overall assessment points:
 - The main questions will be asked from the questionnaire form again and compared with the researchers' answers.
 - Feedback from respondents about the researchers' performance will be obtained:
 - Name badge
 - Appearance
 - Introduction to survey
 - Method of asking and clarifying questions
 - Treating and respecting the respondent
 - Giving the respondent sufficient time to answer all questions

Data Security

Data Security

It is critical to prevent unauthorized access to the data.

Key Steps to Ensure Data Security

- No access to tablet settings
- All interview files are made invisible on the tablets once submitted
- Data stored on secure CTO servers
- Data is backed up on Box

Controlled Access to Data

No access to Tablet Settings

- Interviewers cannot access tablet settings by the Aplock application
- The application prevents any tampering with recordings/geolocations settings

Encrypted Interview files

- Data stored in each individual SurveyCTO interview file is encrypted as per client request
- Data can only be read by the data processor and technical adviser

Protected Storage

- All interview files are made invisible on the tablets once submitted by the interviewers
- All data will be stored on secure CTO servers
- Data is backed up on Box
- Client has full access to the CTO account and can take back-ups as required

Referrals

Disclosure – what sorts of disclosures should you report?

MUST REPORT

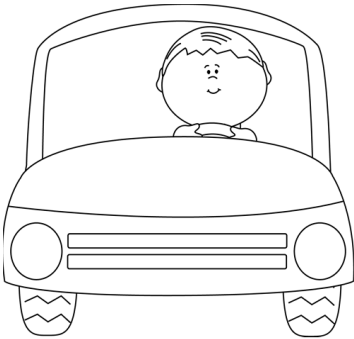

- Physical violence
- Sexual violence or exploitation
- Impending child marriage
- Worst forms of Child Labour
- Unaccompanied and Separated Children
- Children in conflict with the law
- Children associated with armed forces and armed groups
- Severe violence in schools and domestic violence

REPORT FOR WHO?

All research participants and their families

Dealing with Disclosure

Let the child
drive:

- Listen, but do not press the adolescent for information.
- Stay calm and be reassuring.
- Believe in what you are being told but do not over-react.
- Say that you are glad that the young person told you.
- Has the child told anyone else about this before? Who?
- Ask what the child would like to happen right now
- At the end of each interview, we will also provide children and their caregivers with a card with UNHCR and UNICEF helpline numbers so that they have an opportunity to report any concerns after the interview if they want to
- Follow up with your supervisor who will in turn report to Mindset and the GAGE Coordinator

Referral Protocol

If you have concerns and you think you may have come across a case where the child or caregiver may need specialized help:

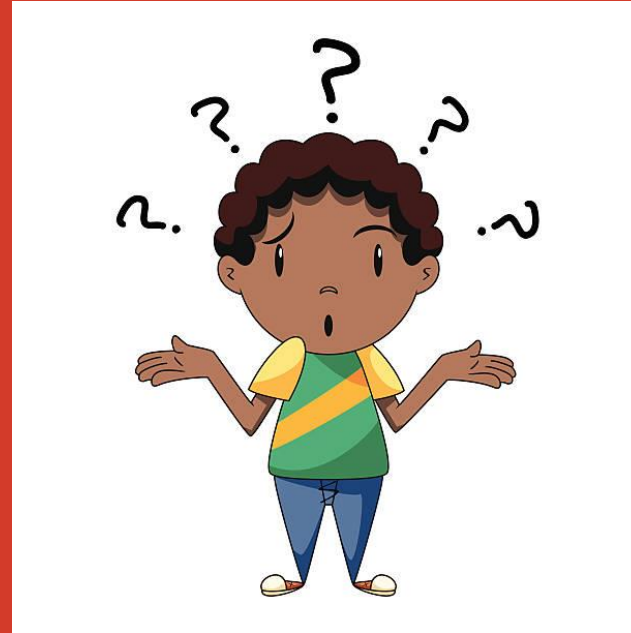

1. Make sure that at the end of the interview you distribute the number with UNHCR and UNICEF's helpline numbers
2. Immediately after leaving the interview, discuss the details of the case with your supervisor
3. Complete the online Referral form prepared by Mindset
4. If you think the respondent is at serious and immediate risk (i.e.: life threatening cases), please alert the Office Supervisor at Mindset
5. Mindset will inform GAGE daily about the case and GAGE will decide whether it should be referred to UNHCR or UNICEF
